DECEMBER in GH

On behalf of the Ghana Tourism Authority, it is my utmost pleasure to welcome you to another December in GH, a season of vibrant and captivating experiences. Since its inception in 2019 as part of the Year of Return, December in GH has emerged as a truly transformative phenomenon, revolutionizing Ghana's tourism landscape.

December holds profound significance in Ghana's cultural fabric, with various celebrations and festivals taking place across the country. This period serves as an extraordinary opportunity for visitors and locals alike to immerse themselves in the rich heritage, engaging traditions, and warm hospitality that Ghana has to offer. From the bustling markets of Accra to the serene beaches of Cape Coast, December in GH has become a thriving platform for visitors and locals to create lasting memories, forge connections, celebrate African heritage, and promote a thriving tourism industry in Ghana.

The impact of December in GH on Ghana's tourism and local economy cannot be understated. Each year, an increasing number of visitors flock to Ghana to partake in a wide range of activities, including concerts, cultural performances, art exhibitions, historical tours, and culinary experiences. This surge in tourists not only stimulates economic growth but also fosters a sense of pride and unity throughout the nation.

Moreover, December in GH showcases the remarkable progress that Ghana has made in positioning itself as a premier destination for travel and exploration. The Ghana Tourism Authority, in collaboration with various stakeholders, has diligently worked to create a safe, inclusive, and sustainable environment for visitors to enjoy. Through strategic partnerships, Ghana has established itself as a beacon of tourism excellence.

As you peruse this document, we implore you to embark on a journey of discovery, awakening, and celebration. Immerse yourself in the vibrant rhythm of the festivals, delve into the captivating history of our nation, and savor the flavors of our traditional cuisines. Let December in GH be your gateway to an extraordinary confluence of cultures, a tapestry of stories, and an unforgettable experience. May your journey during December in GH be filled with joy, enlightenment, and cherished memories.

"INTRO.DUES.IN.US" - "AN.ORDER.WAY" III
@ GOETHE INSTITUT, CANTONMENTS, ACCRA

Whether spoken by word, acted by movement or delivered in silence, a performance is never misleading. Even if it's misleading, it leads to something that was, something that is, and or something that is to come. "We" see a performance and "we" start guessing meanings, "we" embroider stories or supposed narratives that may and or may not, but who says "we" can't? "Intro.Dues.In.US" is set to take us on an order meticulous journey into the multidimensional idea of "US" metaphorically speaking to see, taste, smell, touch and feel what was, what is, what could be and or become.

“A DIVINATION OF ENJOYMENT: EXTENDED PLAY (EP)” - AN IMMERSIVE EXHIBITION BY NII.A.K @ THE MIX DESIGN HUB, OSU, ACCRA

The exhibition, “a divination of enjoyment: extended play (EP),” incorporates the Ghanaian folklore of Ananse the Spider and explores Black cosmologies of West African origin. The use of water and wood symbolizes the shores of the Atlantic Ocean and the gyli/balafon (xylophone) respectively. Through water divination, the exhibition features an immersive installation by nii.a.k and a group of collaborators. The installation explores the ocean as a reflection of the Earth and poses the question: What can we learn from the world’s reflection during a season of crisis and celebration? By subverting the historical colonial meaning of Christian holidays in Ghana during December-January, the exhibition aims to raise public awareness about the significance of reparations for people of the Black diaspora.

Beyond The Return

Beyond the Return is a 10-year initiative with the theme, 'A decade of African Renaissance'. It was officially launched by President Nana Akufo-Addo after the successful Year of Return in 2019. This initiative is from 2020-2030. The secretariat office operates as part of the Ghana Tourism Authority and over the last year our team has engaged in many activities that connect with one of the seven pillars of the Beyond the Return initiative.

The pillars are:

EXPERIENCE GHANA

GIVE BACK GHANA

PROMOTE PAN AFRICAN HERITAGE & INNOVATION

CELEBRATE GHANA

INVEST IN GHANA

BRAND GHANA

DIASPORA PATHWAY TO GHANA

In a dynamic showcase of collaboration and innovation, the inaugural Africa Prosperity Dialogues was a success and proved to be a strategic event aimed at propelling intra-African trade to new heights. The event, where the most influential political and business leaders across the continent converged, charted a course for actionable initiatives aligned with the African Union's ambitious Agenda 2063. This year's theme, "AfCFTA: From Ambition to Action, Delivering Prosperity Through Continental Trade," set the stage for vibrant discussions and groundbreaking strategies.

Discussions on facilitating the free movement of people across borders ignited conversations on potential solutions. Participants recognized the pivotal role this plays in the success of the African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA).

The two-day event, held on January 26-27, 2023, took place in Kwahu, Eastern Region. An emphasis on addressing the needs of Micro, Small, and Medium-Sized Enterprises (MSMEs) in African countries was highlighted along with their important contributions in providing jobs across the continent.

The Africa Prosperity Dialogues not only showcased visionary discussions but also laid the groundwork for transformative actions that will shape the future of trade and prosperity across the continent, perfectly aligning with the 'Invest in Ghana' pillar of the Beyond the Return initiative.

Historic Ceremony Grants Citizenship to Tulsa Race Massacre Survivors

Viola Fletcher, aged 108, and her brother Hughes Van Ellis, 102, made history at the Ghana Embassy in Washington DC, where they were granted Ghanaian citizenship in a private ceremony. Clad in matching traditional Ghanaian attire in golden and burgundy hues, and holding Ghanaian flags, the siblings were treated to a performance of traditional music and dance, organized by Ghana's Ministry of Tourism, Arts, and Culture, Ministry of Interior, the Ghana Tourism Authority, Beyond the Return, Diaspora African Forum, the Diaspora Affairs Office of the President, and the Embassy of Ghana in DC.

Their journey to Ghana in 2021 marked the 100th anniversary of the Tulsa massacre, a tragic event that devastated the thriving all-Black community of Greenwood in the U.S. Viola Fletcher, aged 7 at the time, and Hughes Van Ellis, an infant, survived the massacre that shattered their community, and their visit to Ghana fulfilled a lifelong dream for Viola. During a meeting with Ghana's President, H.E. Nana Akufo-Ado, he decided to confer Ghanaian citizenship and offer them a piece of land, aligning with the 'Year of Return' 2019 campaign, inviting the global African diaspora to experience Ghana's history, heritage, and culture.

The ceremony was attended by distinguished guests, including Ghana's Minister of Tourism Arts and Culture, Ibrahim Awal, CEO of the Ghana Tourism Authority, Akwasi Agyeman, Director of the Beyond the Return Secretariat, Annabelle McKenzie, Paramount King of the Igbo community in Ghana, Eze Dr. Chukwudi Ihenetu, Founder and Head of Missions at Diaspora African Forum, Ambassador Erika Bennett, Grammy-nominated artist Rocky Dawuni, and Hollywood actress A.J. Akua Johnson. The event not only celebrated the siblings' resilience but also symbolized a powerful connection between them and the Ghanaian community.

Sadly, Hughes Van Ellis passed away on October 10th at age 102 after a brief illness. He lived a long life and was blessed with the chance to experience Ghana, West Africa and to become a citizen of the country that made him feel at home. In his words after visiting Ghana, "We are one."

HOWARD UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Black History Month - Howard University

Last year the Provost of Howard University, Dr. Anthony Wutoh, declared the 2022-2023 academic school year as the 'Year of Ghana'. The university has subsequently had a number of events to celebrate the culture, tourism and business opportunities in Ghana.

During Black History Month, the CEO of Ghana Ghana Tourism Authority, Akwasi Agyeman, and the Director of the Beyond the Return Secretariat, Annabelle McKenzie participated in events at Howard University that helped to bridge the gap between Ghana and the diaspora community.

In celebration of the 50th anniversary of hip-hop music and culture, Ghanaian artist M.anifest, was invited to deliver a talk on how the music has influenced Africa and become a cultural connector. Although he began his career in the United States, he eventually returned to Ghana and is one of the artists that blends African culture and storytelling into his music while still including the hip hop influences from African American culture.

Panel discussions and virtual events A Graduate Student Symposium was a virtual event that featured The Department of African Studies also held a discussion on the relationship between Ghana and the African diaspora.

Kamala Harris in Ghana

United States Vice President Kamala Harris embarked on a significant three-country tour in Africa, commencing with a warm arrival in Ghana on March 26th. Welcomed by Ghana's Vice President Dr. Mahamudu Bawumia, government officials, and enthusiastic students from Basics International School, the reception resonated with the vibrant rhythm of Ghana's cultural heart through drumming and dancing.

During her three-day stay in Ghana, Vice President Harris expressed anticipation for important discussions with President Nana Akufo Addo, emphasizing the importance of strengthening the relationship between the United States and African nations. Addressing the crowd, she conveyed optimism about Africa's future and its global impact, highlighting the United States' commitment to fostering democracy, economic growth, and robust business ties with African countries.

Vice President Harris outlined her agenda, including meetings with women entrepreneurs, farmers, artists, students, and youth, aiming to engage with the diverse facets of Ghana's society. She conveyed excitement about witnessing the creativity and innovation that have made Africa a global source of inspiration. As she prepares for subsequent visits to Tanzania and Zambia, Vice President Harris expressed gratitude for the warm welcome and reaffirmed the United States' dedication to nurturing a strong and mutually beneficial relationship with the continent of Africa.

Prince George's County, Maryland, Explores Trade & Investment Opportunities with Ghana

In a strategic effort to foster economic collaboration and strengthen international ties, Wala Blegay, Esq, Council Vice Chair of District 6 in Prince George's County, Maryland, along with the Economic Development Corporation, spearheaded a dynamic Business Forum. This event, held with the primary focus on exploring investment opportunities, trade partnerships, and tourism initiatives, served as a pivotal platform for enhancing bi-lateral relationships between Prince George's County and Ghana.

The Business Forum provided a unique opportunity for stakeholders to engage in meaningful discussions on potential investments and trade ventures between Ghana and the United States. Wala Blegay, Esq, and the Economic Development Corporation played instrumental roles in orchestrating a conducive environment for fruitful conversations that aimed to further economic growth and collaboration. This event aligned with the 'Invest in Ghana' pillar of the Beyond the Return initiative.

Notable participants in this significant event included Akwasi Agyeman, CEO of Ghana Tourism Authority, Annabelle McKenzie, Director of the Beyond the Return Secretariat, Yofi Grant, CEO of Ghana Investment Promotion Centre, and representatives from the Embassy of Ghana in Washington DC. Their presence underscored the importance of cross-cultural exchanges and bilateral partnerships in promoting mutual economic prosperity.

As the discussions unfolded, they spoke on the opportunities for collaboration, ranging from tourism promotion to trade and investment facilitation. This meeting emphasized the commitment to building enduring connections and fostering mutually beneficial ventures. This Business Forum not only laid the groundwork for potential economic collaborations but also served as a testament to the dedication of Prince George's County, Maryland, to strengthening global relationships and contributing to the socio-economic advancement of its community by partnering with Ghanaian businesses.

Georgia State University’s Media Institute Visits Ghana

A delegation of students and lecturers from the Creative Media Industries Institute at Georgia State University visited Ghana this year. It was part of an educational exchange to learn about the creative industries in Ghana. As part of their trip they are focused on engaging with people working in the local creative industries.

Ghana Tourism Authority and the Beyond the Return Secretariat organized sessions for them to connect with local artists, filmmakers and creatives. The first event gave them an opportunity to screen some short films created by filmmakers in Ghana. They also had the opportunity to meet with the National Film Authority and industry stakeholders including directors, producers, animators and actors in an interactive session designed to develop a deeper engagement.

Events like this are important for the Beyond the Return Secretariat because it fulfils the goal of connecting with the diaspora and looking at ways to connect and bridge the gap through industry. The impact of such connections within the creative community stands to put Ghana in a position to work with those abroad to create compelling stories and art that brings our people together.

Presidential Summit on Tourism

The Presidential Summit on Tourism was a reminder of how tourism had taken centre stage in Ghana. Through its Year of Return 2019, Beyond the Return and Destination Ghana campaigns, it has become the hotspot for travel experiences. The summit was led by President Nana Akufo-Addo in partnership with the Ministry of Tourism Arts and Culture and the Ghana Tourism Authority.

President Akufo-Addo's administration recognizes the immense economic and job creation potential of the tourism sector. According to estimations, three out of every ten jobs in Ghana will be created by the tourism industry. This realization has led the government to make tourism a vanguard of national development.

The summit was held in the breathtaking surroundings of the Peduase Lodge, President Akufo-Addo outlined a powerful four-fold approach to unleash the full potential of tourism: Preservation, Promotion, Policy Leadership, and Partnership.

Preservation: We are the guardians of Ghana's natural wonders. It is our responsibility to safeguard them for future generations. The government, along with all stakeholders in the tourism sector, must prioritize the preservation of our country's natural treasures.

Promotion: Let the world witness Ghana's unique appeal. Through strategic marketing campaigns, enhanced digital presence, and targeted investments in infrastructure, we can amplify the diverse attractions our nation has to offer. Ghana will shine on the global stage.

Policy Leadership: The private sector holds the key to creating the right climate for investments to flourish in the tourism sector. The government is committed to prioritizing initiatives like the e-visa regime, the homeland return act, and the visa on arrival processes to facilitate a seamless and inviting environment for investors.

Partnership: Collaboration is the backbone of success. The tourism sector requires partnerships and a collaborative approach involving all stakeholders. By uniting our efforts, sharing knowledge, and pooling resources, we can propel Ghana's tourism industry to new heights.

Join us on this remarkable journey as we harness the power of tourism to drive economic growth and job creation in Ghana. Together, let us reshape the future of our nation and create lasting prosperity for all.

Exploring Caribbean Investment Opportunities with Ghana Investment Promotion Centre

Ghana's aim to connect with the diaspora continues to be fostered by developing deeper relations not only in tourism and culture but also when looking at investment potential. This year the Ghana Investment Promotion Centre together with Ghana Tourism Authority and Beyond the Return, set out on the mission to build business relationships in the Caribbean.

They began with the Ghana-Bahamas Business Forum at the Franklyn R. Wilson Graduate Centre, University of the Bahamas. This pivotal initiative aimed to cultivate new business opportunities and foster economic growth between the Centre and the Caribbean countries Guyana, Barbados, and the Bahamas.

The mission was more than just a diplomatic gesture; it symbolized a strategic move to explore untapped potential in the Caribbean while exposing them to Ghana's potential opportunities. With a focus on Guyana, Barbados, and the Bahamas, the delegation focused on identifying key sectors where mutual economic benefits can be realized. This includes but is not limited to trade, technology, tourism, and infrastructure development.

One of the primary goals of this mission is to create synergies that go beyond economic transactions. By encouraging collaboration in research, innovation, and cultural exchange, Ghana aims to establish lasting relationships that contribute to the social and economic development of both the Centre and the Caribbean countries involved.

This trip marked a significant milestone in fostering economic collaboration. The Bahamas Business Forum, as the starting point of this mission, sets the stage for meaningful interactions and the exploration of diverse business opportunities. The hope is to not only strengthen economic ties but also to build a foundation for enduring partnerships that transcend borders and contribute to the growth and prosperity of the participating regions.

Juneteenth Celebrations

The Juneteenth Festival in Ghana was a vibrant celebration of African American heritage and history. The festival brought together the African American Association of Ghana, the Ghana Tourism Authority, the Diaspora Affairs Office of the President and other members of the diaspora community to commemorate June 19, 1865, the date when enslaved Africans in America were finally free.

The festival highlighted the strong connections between Ghana and the African American community. Ghana has the tragic history of being one of the major countries at the centre of the transatlantic slave trade, and many African Americans have traced their ancestry back to Ghana and other West African nations.

The festival was an opportunity to connect with each other while recognizing the significance of Juneteenth for African Americans. Celebrating this in Ghana was important to the community because it served as a way for them to also teach Ghanaians about their history and culture while building bridges between our communities.

The event started with a parade where everyone marched from the W.E.B. DuBois Centre to Gold Coast Restaurant. Everyone was in jubilation while a marching band also played music to celebrate the importance of the day. The event featured music, dance, food, and art that reflected African American culture. There were performances from local musicians and artists, as well as food vendors offering classic soul food dishes. The festival also included workshops on African American history, culture, and traditions.

The Juneteenth Festival in Ghana was a wonderful celebration of African American heritage and history. It was a testament to the resilience, strength, and beauty of the African American community.

Essence Festival Puts a Spotlight in Ghana's Creative & Tourism Industries

The 29th Essence Festival of Culture™ took place in New Orleans from June 29 to July 3, 2023, celebrating the rich tapestry of Black culture. This iconic event has evolved into a global gathering empowering communities within the Black diaspora and this year they put a focus on Africa's vibrant tourism and creative industries.

Ghana's presence at the festival traces back to the Year of Return in 2019, where collaborative efforts between the Ghana Tourism Authority (GTA) and the Essence Festival began. The Essence Global Black Economic Forum (GBEF) Africa was inaugurated during that year, featuring notable figures like Boris Kojoe and Bozoma Saint John. In 2022, GTA CEO Akwasi Agyeman took the stage as a featured speaker at the GBEF in New Orleans.

The Essence Film Festival, a highlight of this year's festivities, put a spotlight on African cinematic achievements. Ghana Day was on July 2nd and had engaging panel discussions and film screenings. The panel titled 'Destination Ghana: Travel, Tourism & Film' featured Annabelle McKenzie, Director of the Beyond the Return Secretariat, discussing Ghana's tourism impact and its potential as a film destination.

Other notable speakers representing Ghana included Dr. Nadia Adongo Fynn, Deputy Director of Diaspora Affairs, and renowned high-profile people in film/TV including Juliet Ibrahim, Chris Attoh, Esi Yamoah, Sonya Ibrahim, and Michael Djaba. The Essence Film Festival showcased Ghanaian productions such as 'Moon Over Aburi' and 'Room 5,' highlighting the nation's cinematic growth.

The Ghanaian delegation's participation underscores the evolving relationship, offering a platform to celebrate Ghanaian culture and foster economic growth and exchange between Ghana and the African American community.

Jack & Jill Brooklyn Chapter & Art Cares Foundation Empowers Youth With New Computers

The Art Cares Foundation initiated the 'Tech is the Future' Project to address the digital divide in Ghanaian schools. Many institutions lack the necessary resources for students to compete globally in the tech sphere. In collaboration with the Jack and Jill Brooklyn Chapter, the project focuses on providing desktop PCs and comprehensive computer training programs to schools like Ebenezer 4 JHS School in Mambrobi.

This aligns with the 'Give Back Ghana' pillar of the Beyond the Return initiative and their mission to promote growth, investment, and cultural exchange. The commissioning of the new ICT Laboratory was attended by community stakeholders and representatives from the school. The project will empower the students in the community with digital skills, ensure hands-on experience and familiarity with computer technology, fostering computer literacy and readiness for success in the digital age.

The Jack and Jill Brooklyn Chapter played a vital role in launching the ICT Laboratory, providing desktop computers. The newly established laboratory becomes a hub for learning and skill development, promising significant impacts on students and their community, preparing them to be productive members of the workforce post-education.

With support from Ivy Prosper, a key figure in the Beyond the Return Secretariat, and endorsements from the Ghana Tourism Authority, the project aligns with their mission to promote growth, investment, and cultural exchange. The Tech is the Future Project stands as a commendable effort to bridge the digital gap, empowering students with essential skills and contributing to Ghana's advancement in the digital era.

PANAFEST & Emancipation

This year's PANAFEST activities began with a historical tour tracing the routes of captured enslaved Africans during the time of the trans-Atlantic Slave trade. The journey was a pilgrimage that allowed for us to reconnect with the past. Ghana Tourism Authority and the Beyond the Return Secretariat travelled with Ghanaians and members of the diaspora to visit important historical sites including Pikworo Slave Camp, Salaga Slave Market and Assin Praso.

It was an opportunity to connect the full story of our ancestors who were captured in the northern parts of Ghana and eventually taken to the coastal areas where they were transported in the slave trade.

PANAFEST is a bi-annual event that has become the biggest pan-African festival that draws members of the diaspora to Ghana. Each festival begins with honouring three pan-African leaders; Ghana's first president, Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, W.E.B. DuBois, and George Padmore. Wreath-laying ceremonies in Accra to honour them kick-starts the activities that continue in Cape Coast and Elmina.

The festival closes with Emancipation day which was celebrated in Assin Manso with a grand durbar of Chiefs and Queen Mothers from the surrounding communities.

Chale Wote Street Art Festival at Black Star Square

The 13th Chale Wote Street Art Festival was a dynamic celebration of contemporary art that took place from August 21- 27, 2023. The festival is one of Africa’s most vibrant street art events. This year’s theme “Magneto Motherland” rooted in commemorating over a decade of iconic public art interventions by African artists, the 2023 Chale Wote Street Art Festival marked a significant milestone. The term “Chale Wote,” which translates to “Friend, let’s go” in Ga, the language of Accra’s indigenous people, has become synonymous with flip-flops. The festival, extending its reach beyond creative boundaries, aimed to cultivate a broader audience for the arts in West Africa.

For the first time, the festival shifted its venue to Osu, one of Accra’s oldest neighborhoods dating back to the early 19th century. Osu, a vital part of the city’s commercial and cultural landscape, boasts a rich history rooted in the settlement of Ga fishermen in the late 18th century. The historic Osu Castle and Black Star Square were the main sites for this year’s festival.

Black Star Square featured open-air mural exhibitions by leading Ghanaian and international artists. The artwork drew inspiration from the rebellion of enslaved Afro-Brazilians in 1835 Salvador Bahia and their triumphant return to present-day Ghana, Togo, and Nigeria. The narrative unfolded as a musical theatre piece titled “MEMORY MOVEMENT FREEDOM,” performed by community-based performance groups, dance troupes, and brass bands.

Highlights of the festival included live murals by the Ghanaian art collective AFUABE, detailing the Gold Coast’s resistance against colonial invasions. The program encompassed performance art, graffiti, music stages featuring 120 musicians and bands, LABS, salons, design, photography, processions, street theater, and the SHIKA SHIKA Art Fair, showcasing independent artists at the Christianborg Castle.

Supported by the Ministry of Tourism, Arts & Culture, Ghana Tourism Authority, and other partners, the Chale Wote Street Art Festival at the Black Star Square and Christianborg Castle became an unforgettable multi-disciplinary art experience, bringing together the industry’s biggest acts and fostering a deeper connection to independent art production in Africa.

Emotional Justice: Healing Harm, Heeding History

The Beyond the Return initiative's theme of 'A decade of African Renaissance' has a strong focus on connecting with our global African diaspora brothers and sisters. The Emotional Justice event was an opportunity to support an event that focused on a transformative journey of healing.

Emotional Justice is a groundbreaking project that shapes the narrative of racial healing within the global Black community. The event, hosted by Author of the book, Emotional Justice: A Roadmap to Racial Healing, Esther Armah. She delved into the intricacies of healing and uncovered a compelling framework that addressed the emotional economy and identity of Black people across the continent and the diaspora.

At the heart of Emotional Justice was a call for collective healing, urging us to navigate the complexities of our emotional landscape as global Black individuals. This revolutionary model expanded upon Kwame Nkrumah's vision of economic independence, introducing the emotional economy as a crucial element requiring our attention. The emotional reckoning demanded that we confront the legacy of colonialism and its impact on our identities, emphasizing a collective mindset for the prosperity of the entire continent.

In our pursuit of Emotional Justice, Esther Armah confronted the dual identities of Africa—a continent reduced to a single story and fragmented into individual corners. The project challenges this narrative, advocating for a shift from scattered communities to a united, collective strength. It underscored the importance of recognizing and dismantling the emotional economy that threatened the future of the continent.

The event took place at the Library of Africa and the African Diaspora, a setting that aligned with the vision of bringing our people together as a global community.

A Night of Excellence at the 2023 Headies Awards Celebrating African Music and Culture

The 2023 Headies Awards, hosted at the Cobb Energy Performing Arts Center in Atlanta, once again proved itself as a beacon of excellence in the African music industry. Established in 2006 by the Hip Hop World Magazine of Nigeria, the Headies has evolved into one of the most prestigious events celebrating the diversity and vibrancy of African music and culture. This year's event was a collaboration with Morehouse College and endorsed by Ghana Tourism Authority and the Beyond the Return Secretariat.

Partnerships that help to further deepen relations between the diaspora and Ghana are important to our team.

This year's edition continued the tradition of recognizing and rewarding outstanding contributions in African music, with Afrobeats transcending borders and uniting the continent through a shared love for music. The awards showcased the artistic ingenuity of Pan-African talent, highlighting the global appeal of African music. The 2-day event also included a panel discussion on African Creatives and HBCUs.

A significant highlight for Ghana was Black Sherif winning West African Artist of the Year. He's been making significant waves around the world with his music over the last few years. "We are so proud of what he's accomplished from his humble beginnings. Meeting one of Ghana's biggest creative talents at the awards ceremony was a pleasure. Black Sherif is a testament to the raw talent coming from Ghana," said Annabelle McKenzie, Director of the Beyond the Return Secretariat.

Themed 'Celebrating African Renaissance,' the Headies Awards 2023 underscored the significance of African culture and creativity in the global entertainment industry. Beyond just recognizing the hard work of artists, the event served as a platform to inspire the next generation of African talents.

OCTOBER

GHANA WEEK DC

The inaugural Ghana Week DC, took place October 9-14, 2023 and was a tremendous success in bringing communities together to celebrate the rich culture, tourism, and business opportunities in Ghana. The week featured a series of engaging activities and showcased the best of Ghana.

The Ghana Tourism Authority, in partnership with the Ghana Embassy in Washington DC, LIQUID SOUL-DC, Events DC, and D.C. United held this groundbreaking initiative.

The climax of the week of events was the football (soccer) match between Ghana's Medeama SC and DC United at Audi Field. It was a club-friendly game that brought together fans from the U.S. and Africans living in the DMV area to experience a friendly competition that shows the power of sports to bring people together.

In addition to promoting tourism, Ghana Week DC created a platform for fostering business opportunities. The event hosted various business forums, networking sessions, and trade exhibitions that facilitated connections between Ghanaian businesses and individuals interested in investing or partnering with Ghanaian enterprises. This enables the promotion of economic growth and collaboration between businesses in Ghana and the United States. Ghana Week DC has successfully sparked interest in Ghana's business landscape and has become an influential hub for promoting investment and trade between the two nations.

Veronica's Way Supports Building Computer Labs for Students in Accra

Veronica's Way is a non-profit organization that was created to offer three community service pillars: Technological, Literacy, Hunger Elimination, and Educational Support. The Founder of Veronica's Way, Crispin Michael Booker, visited Ghana with a delegation to fulfill the organization's mission of giving back to underserved communities.

Since the organization was launched in 2016, they have built 28 computer labs supporting tens of thousands of students in Grenada, Haiti and Jamaica. This year they started their goal of building six to eight computer labs in Accra, Ghana.

In order to successfully achieve their goal they collaborated with Ghana Tourism Authority and the Beyond the Return Secretariat who helped to identify the schools in need and to verify the schools that have the space and electrical power to support a computer lab.

Event Organisers meet with Inspector General of Police

The Ghana Police Headquarters hosted an important meeting with the Ghana Tourism Authority, Beyond the Return Secretariat, and endorsed event organizers to discuss safety and security measures for the upcoming December in GH celebrations. Led by the Inspector General of Police, Dr. George Akuffo Dampare, the session aimed to foster collaboration and highlight the importance of unity in creating unforgettable and secure cultural festivities.

With December in GH events gaining momentum and attracting both domestic and international visitors, ensuring safety and security is paramount. The Ghana Police Headquarters recognizes the significance of these celebrations for promoting tourism and showcasing Ghanaian heritage to the world.

During the meeting, participants engaged in open discussions, sharing insights, and expectations for this year's December in GH activities. The Inspector General of Police emphasized the vital role of collaborative efforts in maintaining public safety and urged event organizers to comply with security guidelines to ensure smooth operations.

The Ghana Police Headquarters promised to work closely with the Ghana Tourism Authority and Beyond the Return Secretariat, establishing effective communication channels and deploying dedicated security personnel at various event venues. The Ghana Tourism Authority is committed to promoting and sustaining the growth of tourism in Ghana, and their partnership with the Ghana Police Headquarters underscores their dedication to a safe and secure environment for visitors and locals alike.

Event organizers whose activities have been approved and endorsed for the December in GH festivities expressed their gratitude for the support and guidance provided by the Ghana Police Headquarters. They reassured the public that they would adhere to security protocols and collaborate
